Acknowledgements
This book would not be possible without the contributions made by all of the Cornell students in Rome. I am specially grateful to them and to my Cornell colleagues for their involvement in this cross-cultural working environment. Many thanks to Kent Hubbell and to Mark Cuveller for making possible the realization of this book, to Anna Rita Fili, and to Rosanna De Buono for their help and patience in organizing the student's material, to Jeffrey Blanchard for his meticulous revisions, and to all my Italian friends who took part in the lecture series, and who were involved in the important task of stimulating an interesting and challenging debate. Finally, I would like to dedicate this book to Colin Rowe, in gratitude for his inspiration as a brilliant and enthusiastic scholar of Rome.
